

DRC Conflict Minerals Documentation Requirements Are Here to Stay

EICC-GeSI Conflict Minerals Reporting Template and DRC Conflict Free Declaration available instantly on Ecliptek's website.

July 26, 2013

Costa Mesa, CA – On July 24, 2013, a Federal judge upheld the disclosure requirements of the SEC Conflict Minerals Final Rule of the Dodd Frank Wall Street Reform Act. To help its customers comply with these court confirmed requirements, Ecliptek now provides instant access to an industry standard Microsoft Excel based EICC-GeSI Conflict Minerals Template that is used in aggregating and reporting conflict minerals information to the SEC. Ecliptek has populated the EICC-GeSI Template with its conflict mineral and smelter information.

“Based on the Federal court’s latest decision, the need to be able to quickly obtain Conflict Minerals data is even more critical” said Robert Zarrow, VP of Global Customer Support. “Ecliptek is committed to helping our customers stay ahead of the curve by providing instant access to the most accurate, comprehensive and current information regarding our products.”

Ecliptek has also published a Conflict Minerals Declaration that certifies its products as DRC (Democratic Republic of Congo) conflict free, as well as updates to its Conflict Mineral Policy, Compliance Roadmap, and Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs).
